Announcement

New digital service by HEDNO

Online submission of the Licensed Electrician Certification (LEC)

HEDNO continues its digital transformation and upgrade of the services provided by announcing that from 1 March 2023, Licensed Electrician Certifications (LEC) will be submitted online only.

More specifically, they will be submitted on the online HEDNO Service Application. Please note that they shall be signed digitally with one of the following methods:

- with certified digital signature, as per Law 4727/2020;
- via the Single Digital Gateway of Public Administration (gov.gr);
- with the procedure described in JMD No. 43059 ΕΞ 2022/20.10.2022 (GG B 5471/21.10.2022), especially for cases where as per Law 4483/1965, a validation from the occupational association of the electrician is required.

Please note that the LEC certifies the safety of internal electrical installations at properties and is required because its safeguards citizens against serious risks (electric shock, fire etc.) that may be caused by the installations that have not been checked. Please visit this link Online Application for LECs to check if your property has a valid LEC or if you must proceed with re-checking your electrical installation.

HEDNO continues to provide their customer support services through its main page www.deddie.gr and implements its commitment for optimal operations and digitalization of all its services.
