Announcement on the power supply issues in Thessaloniki and Halkidiki caused by Storm Bora

On the occasion of the Storm Bora that swept across the country, HEDNO announces that power supply has currently been restored in most of the affected areas. However, in some parts of the grid in Thessaloniki and Halkidiki, issues are persisting.

HEDNO's technical support team, assisted since yesterday with additional staff from Thessaly and Epirus, along with partner contracting companies, continues to work diligently to repair the damages.

More specifically, in the Panorama area of Thessaloniki, the reconnection of 300 supply points to the network is still pending. Currently, HEDNO technicians are inspecting the grid in the wider area and continuing restoration efforts, aiming to complete the reconnections by early evening.

Finally, some individual issues remain unresolved in the Halkidiki Grid, where technicians are continuing inspections to repair the damages.
