

ANNOUNCEMENT

Following the updating provided to consumers regarding the electricity supply problems caused by Ianos cyclone, HEDNO would like to announce the following:

In Kefalonia, after the reconnection of electricity supply at Argostoli since yesterday, the crews continue works for the reconnection of the rest of the areas while facing several problems relating to difficulties in accessing the areas of the damages, since in most of these cases, relevant works for the opening of road networks must first take place, and these are currently still in progress.

For Ithaki, the technical staff team of HEDNO which has been enhanced with all necessary equipment, is since yesterday remaining in alert in order to be able to transfer to the island and start restoration works at the extended damages. This is something that will become possible within the next hours, since all departures from the port of Killini still remain in hold.

At the moment, extensive efforts for the restoration of damages at the Electricity Distribution Network are being made by the crews of HEDNO at the city of Karditsa, where severe problems in the access to the damages are also persisting due to flooded streets.
